Success Story

Bill came to Vibra life after having a heart attack and having 3 heart stents. He had a decline in functional ability and generalized weakness and had ambulation dysfunction. His goal was to get stronger and walk again and return home with his wife. He was only able to walk 30 feet with a walker and needed moderate assistance. His bedroom was on the second floor so he needed to also become stronger so he could negotiate steps. Bill required moderate assistance to dress himself when he came to Vibralife and needed frequent rest breaks because of low endurance to complete activities of daily living. After working hard in physical and occupational therapy, he was able to return home with his wife walking with a walker over 200 feet at a time and he was able to perform steps safely enough to go upstairs to his bedroom. He also gained enough endurance and strength to dress himself without help.
